Elliot: Did you watch TV last night?

Emma: Yeah, I watched that programme with Jamie Oliver. You know, the one where he goes to that school and cooks healthier meals.

Elliot: I saw that too. I hope he doesn't come and change our school dinners. I hate vegetables! Did you see that horrible stew he made with all those vegetables in? Yuk!

Emma: I loved it. I wish he'd come to our school. All we get is chips and pizzas or burgers. Most of the time my mum gives me sandwiches and fruit instead. It's much healthier than the rubbish they serve at school. Did you see that lovely spinach pie he made last night? That looked really tasty.

Elliot: You must be joking! That horrible green stuff? Nobody could make me eat that!

Emma: Maybe they should!

Elliot: What do you mean?

Emma: Well ... you don't look very fit and you're always complaining about being tired and having no energy. You know what they say – you are what you eat! What do you eat at home?

Elliot: We often have fish and chips or sausages and chips and always in front of the telly.

Emma: Would you like to come to my place for dinner sometime? My mum's a really good cook and she does a lot of Jamie Oliver's recipes.

Elliot: No thanks!
