TAPE SCRIPT

Interview 1: Debbie

Interviewer: You've got a part-time job, Debbie, haven't you?

Debbie: Yeah, I've got a Saturday job at Tesco's.

Interviewer: How many hours do you work?

Debbie: Eight.

Interviewer: And what do you do?

Debbie: It's very simple. It's mostly taking things from the storeroom and putting them on the shelves. Sometimes I also help with cleaning after shop hours to get some extra money.

Interviewer: And how much do you get?

Debbie: £ 3 an hour.

Interviewer: Would you like to work in the shop after you've finished school?

Debbie: Certainly not what I'm doing now. But I can see myself as a manager of a Tesco store. I've talked to our manager a few times, and I think that is quite an interesting job.

Interviewer: Well, then, I wish you all the best.

Debbie: Thank you.

Interview 2: John

Interviewer: John, what's your Saturday job?

John: I haven't got a Saturday job, really. I do a paper round for the local news-agents. It's quite a good job, but you have to get up very very early. And sometimes it's dreadful with all the bad weather and that.

Interviewer: Have you ever tried to get another job?

John: No, 'cause I'm only 14, and it's very difficult to get any other job when you're 13 or 14.

Interviewer: How long does your round take you every morning?

John: Almost three quarters of an hour.

Interviewer: And is the money OK?

John: Yeah, £ 15 a week helps quite a bit. I don't get any pocket money, so I really need the job.

Interviewer: What would you like to do after leaving school?

John: I don't really know. Maybe I'll join the police force.

Interviewer: Why's that?

John: Well, my uncle's a policeman, and I think it's quite an interesting job, and the pay is good, I think.
