TAPE SCRIPT

Announcer: An interview with Simon, a 13-year-old boy from Oxford.

Interviewer: Do you have many rules in your family, Simon?

Simon: Well, let me think, yeah, I have to clean my shoes every week, and I have to keep my room tidy. And I have to put out the dustbins on dustbin day.

Interviewer: Do you have to help in the kitchen?

Simon: I don't do any cooking because I can't cook. But it's usually my job to unload the dishwasher.

Interviewer: What about watching TV? Are there any rules about that?

Simon: Not really. I've got a TV in my room and I watch what I like. But I have to switch it off at bedtime.

Interviewer: Are there any rules which your parents are especially strict about?

Simon: Oh, yes. When I go out, I have to tell my mum or dad or leave a note.

Interviewer: When you go out, do you have to be back by a certain time?

Simon: Yes, I'm not allowed to stay out after seven o'clock, but I am allowed to stay out longer on Saturdays.

Interviewer: Do you think that your parents are strict?

Simon: I think they're quite strict, but if there's a problem, they'll always listen to me. So I think my parents are okay, really.
